

Marissa Pauly (2016), Program Manager and Business Communication Adjunct, University of Cincinnati. Marissa Pauly is passionate about helping young women establish self-efficacy while working in higher education. She plans to use her award to support conference registration and travel to a leadership development opportunity.